

FRIDAY EVENING, JUNE 24, 1904.

THE POSSIBILITIES in the United States for men of industry and genius are again exemplified in Senator Fairbanks, who was yesterday nominated for Vice President by the republican national convention at Chicago. While we think he directed his talents in the wrong direction when he entered the republican party, the fact that he is by no means a creature of accident is apparent. He has attained his prominence by sturdy habits, industry and a clear conception of the mission of life. In short, he has earned all he has received. Much could be said concerning the career of men who have been born into this world with neither family names nor fortune, and starting at the lowest rung of the ladder rose higher and higher until they reached the altitude where there is always room. Benjamin Franklio, Horace Greeley, Abraham Lincoln, Andrew Johnson, James A. Garfield and scores of others had nothing upon which to bank save their own exertions. Senator Fairbanks had his conflicts with poverty, but kept on in the rugged path of life and, like his predecessors named above, finally reached the cross-roads where he rose superior to his difficulties. Fame may be an accident in some cases and reputation a vapor, but they are generally lasting when both are honestly acquired.

IN ORDER to help secure the colored votes in the States in which they hold the balance of power, a colored man named Cummings , was sent from Baltimore to the national republican convention to second the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt. It is said that Cummings' speech was the star performance of the day for the Maryland delegation. Chairman Cannon introduced him as "the gentleman from Maryland," and paid hi.n some glowing compliments. His speech was well received, the other colored delegates going wild in their enthusiasm. In his speech he said "Mr. Roosevelt believes that the constitution of the United States and every amendment thereof should be rigidly enforced, and its violation by whatever subterfuge or indefiniteness of expression should be condemned and rem edied." This, of course, had reference to the Southern States which have disqualified a large percentage of the vicious and ignorant colored voters, but whom Mr. Roosevelt would have restored to the electorate had be the power to do so.

THERE is a suspicion that Secretary Hay was playing politics when he cabled his "Perdicaris alive or Raisuli dead" ultimatum to Morocco on Wednesday, and that the message was "written chiefly to stir up enthusiasm at the Mr. Hay's message could have been delivered to the Sultan, unless all records result in the release of the captives on as intermediary in paying over the ransom and receiving the prisoners, to which he previously objected, and this was regarded as ending the affair,

Two DEALERS who pleaded guilty before a Philadelphia magistrate on Wednesday to selling toy pistols to boys under 16 years of age were fined in the nominal sum of $10 as a warning. Within a week after the last Fourth of July there were hundreds of deaths from lockjaw throughout the country as the resuft of accidents with these deadly "toys." Many such deaths occurred in Philadelphia, and the District Attorney and Coroner determined to make a cruzade against dealers who persist in violating a law on the subject which has been on the statute books since 1885. Similar laws are on the statute books in other States but in many of them they are but dead letters.

Metcalf, of California, Secretary of Commerce and Labor. The resignations of Attorney General Knox and Secretary of Commerce and Labor Cortelyou have been accepted to take effect July 1. Mr. Morton had always been a regular democrat until 1896 when he bolted the party and became a gold democrat. Only about two months igo he came out in an interview in which he announced his renunciation of lemocratic principals and declared that he would be found in pereafter he ranks of the republicans. Mr. Moron is the son of the late J. Sterling Morton, who was Secretary of Agriculture under President Cleveland's second idministration. At present he holds the position of second vice president of the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe system and is connected with other corporations. Mr. Morton dined yesterday at the White House and had a long conference with the President. He hesitated about accepting the navy portfolio on account of his lack of special knowledge of naval affairs, but the President finally per-suaded him that this was not necessary. The appointment of Representative Met-calf to be Secretary of the Department of Commerce and Labor was determined upon by the President shortly after it became certain that Secretary Cortelyou would accept the chairmanship of republican national committee. American Yacht Wins Kiel Race. Kiel, Germany, June 24 .- The great ature of today's racing is the contest in which the American yacht Ingomar, be-longing to Commodore Plant, is pitted against the three best racing yachts which Germany can muster. These are the Meteor, belonging to the Kaiser; the Idona, belonging to the Empress, and the Hamburg, belonging to Herr Ballin, the managing director of the Hamburg-American Steamship Company. The Kaiser, dressed in yachting costume, is sailing his own yacht and handles her with the skill of a born sailor. The Meteor this year for the first time has a crew con sisting exclusively of Germans. When life boats were found in place and it was the four yachts crossed the starting line this morning, the Kaiser was at the wheel of the Meteor, shouting orders to the crew in a stentorian voice which betrayed no sign of lingering weakness. The German Empress, also in full yachting costume, was on the deck of her yacht, the Iduna, accompanied by the crown prince. Herr Ballin was on his yacht, the Hamburg. Another interesting race today is one in which the Comet, the Navahoe, the Wendur and the Brunhilde were the starters. The Comet is one of the challengers for the America's cup. She was originally the Thistle. The Navahoe is the first big yacht designed by Nat Herreshoff. The American yacht Swan is taking part in today's race be-tween fifteen smaller yachts. Oku, too, is pressing from the south and adds to Kuropatkin's strategic strength. #### Cowherd on the Platform.

Democratic leaders are delighted with the republican national platform adopted at Chicago because they regard it lame political document. quarters of the democratic congressional committee chairman Cowherd had this to say regarding it:

"Heretofore the republican party had a record for boldness. At Chicago it established a record for timidity and eva-"The platform is remarkable mainly for what it does not say. The labor situation is as acute as at any time in our history, yet there is no announcement in regard to it. There is no longer war in the Philippines. Surely the country is entitled at last to know what is to be the future policy as to those is-lands. The Philippine plank does not

"The tariff plank is an open saddleto be used as a promise of reduction of duties to the voters and a pledge of their maintenance to the manufacturers. "Governor Cummins says: 'It justi fies the Iowa idea.' "General Grosvenor says: 'It is a stand-pat plank.' "Chairman Payne says: 'It leaves the question open.'

"It is evidently not intended as a plank, but as a trap."
"The platform says: 'Our administration of the great departments of the Government has been honest.' This, in the face of the notorious frauds discovered in the Postoffice Department, the scandals in the Land and Indian Bureaus, which the Secretary of the Interior is concealing with so much diffi-culty, and the forced adjournment of Congress in order to prevent any inves-tigation, must be taken as either sarcasm or humor.

The negro plank is the only honest plank in the platform—it is infamous, McKinley's noble utterance above southern graves, his openly recognized policy of a white race for southern States, was thought by patriotic men to signal the death of sectionalism.

"Roosevelt's negro policy joined to Lodge's force bill will revive it. The Crumpacker resolution, discarded by republicans of the House and Senate alike, has been forced by the President upon his party. It will prove the worst mistake among many. Every patriotic citizen anxious for his country's future, wishing to see preserved the purity of the Anglo-Saxon race and American institutions honor he told the members that, while is willing the southern States shall adopt he would be glad to have the benefit of any legal expedient that will save that fair land from the control of i morant and

Speaker Cannon The story is some thing absolutely new in the literary line - a theatrical romance that abounds in genuine humor and human heart-burn-In fact, the tale is so remarkably good that the Sunday North American of Philadelphia has secured the exclusive right to publish it in this territory, and print the first instalment next Sunday, June 26, with illustration worthy of the story.

The July "Everybody's" has been received from the Ridgeway-Thayer Company, of New York. Its two great features are Thomas Lawson's "Frenzied Finance, the Story of Amalgamated Cop-per," and the opening chapters of the new Hall Caine serial, which promises to be absorbingly interesting. There is a clever character sketch of Judge Pargiven absolute power in the conduct of ker, and E. G. Riggs writes of supreme moments at the national conventions in the past twenty-five years. "Donaldine Cameron and the Chinese Slave Trade,' and "The Millionaires' Hunt for Health" are good articles, well illustra-ted. "With the Procession," "Straight Talk" and seven good short stories com-plete this, the best number yet of "Everybody's."
